'Using your mind to achieve your dream life' with Mark Rhodes

(Or How I got 3 women to leave their husbands!)

Mark Rhodes is an International Speaker and Mentor for those that want to achieve more in their lives be that their business or personal lives.

He always thought he was lucky that what he dreamt about happening actually happened, further investigations after achieving big success led Mark on a journey of self discovery.

He discovered that he was actually making these dreams come true himself and realised he had been doing two key things naturally – thinking about how he wanted his life to be in a way he noticed opportunities he would have previously missed and without even realising at the time using the law of attraction.

Mark will share what he discovered and how you can use this too, along with his latest experiences that cannot be explained away by any logic apart from the Universe at work.

This is a unique opportunity to hear Mark speak about this more spiritual side of his journey as it isn't very often he shares the more spiritual side of manifesting dreams with his audiences.

All of this comes with a warning though, be careful what you wish for, Marks results with audiences speak for themselves, in one talk to 250 people 3 women decided to leave their husbands as a result of that talk!
